original fireplace and timber mantle, formal dining area and renovated, well set out kitchen with a large butler pantry. There is one bathroom, however plenty of space to add an ensuite off the main bedroom.

The gardens are a joyous array of pretty flowering shrubs and trees, cottage gardens along with the occasional fruit tree and well set out market garden plus old country roses.

There are only a handful of homes in the dead end street, making it one of the villages elite locations to acquire. Stroll outside this home and join the walkway down through Bullwinkle park and McGuires creek and you will find yourself right in the Main Street and a hop skip and jump to the village shops, schools, cafes and restaurants. Having the feel of being in a small rural setting and being so close to the town setting is a highly desirable position for families, professionals and those looking for their own private retreat while enjoying being so close to all village conveniences.

This home is original and will need some updating to bring it back to its former self , but we are pleased to say that she is solid and timeless in her design, and will most definitely be a property that will increase in value as these style of homes are far and few between in the Alstonville Village.

There is a single carport plus plenty of space for a shed, pool or just enjoy the beauty of this unique allotment. Backing onto rural land you can enjoy the feel of wide open spaces, watching cows graze and the blissful rural surroundings. There is a wide entertainment deck at the rear, a favourite place to relax with friends or hold a family BBQ.

This is once in a life time opportunity to secure a part of Alstonville's history. Please call exclusive agent Melanie Stewart on 0421 560 936 to enquire and arrange a private viewing.
